WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

SCHOOL OF LAW

The Washington University School of Law is a charter member of the Association of American Law Schools, and is on the approved list of the Section on Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar of the American Bar Association. Under a new program for admissions to this School, effective September 1, 1939, students presenting only two years of college credit are required to complete a four-year law curriculum to obtain the LL.B. degree. After two years in law school, however, such students will be granted the degree of Bachelor of Science in Jurisprudence. Students presenting three years or more of college credit receive the LL.B. degree after a three-year curriculum. For further information write the Dean, Washington University School of Law, Washington University, St. Louis, Missouri.
